

Largest yacht will be as long as two football fields

Tuesday, 02 March 2010

In an interview with CNN, Berkeley March, a naval architect, unveiled "Project 1000," or the plan to build the world's biggest super yacht ever.

At 656 feet in length, it's almost as long as two football fields, which would surpass the world's current biggest yacht — Russian billionaire Roman Abramovich's 99-foot-long 560-foot-long "Eclipse."

So how do you fill up all that space? With a double-decker cinema, a night club, helipad and more. Of course, all that floating luxury comes at a price, and that price is a pretty big number: 1 billion dollars. That's 1,000,000,000.

I can think of a lot of things I'd want, and I still don't think they'd add up to 1 billion dollars. What more could you possibly want than a movie theater and a night club on a floating island? "For example, the client could request gold furniture," March explained to CNN.

Oh. Right. Silly me.

Gold furniture.

Source: <http://dvice.com>